The Royal School of Poultry, aware of this need, has led a ten experts team to write this brand new book, the first one adapted to the current European requirements for safe poultry products.

This complete book (624 pages), "HIGIENE Y PATOLOGÍA AVIAR (POULTRY HYGIENE AND PATHOLOGY)" is part of an ambitious editorial project which is assembling all the current poultry knowledge. This project is called "Biblioteca de Avicultura (Poultry Library)" and has previously published other two books, "Producción de carne de pollo (Broiler Meat Production)" and "Reproducción e incubación en avicultura (Poultry Breeding and Hatching)". The Poultry Library is having great success between poultry technicians and producers in Spain, Portugal and Latin American countries.

With a clear didactic wish, this work is being structured as follows:

- a description of the main diseases of the birds, grouped by its etiology
- hygiene and prophylaxis in poultry premises
- therapeutics (use of poultry drugs)
- diagnosis tools

This work is being complemented with an abundant bibliography, a practical alphabetical index which confirms its consulting work characteristics, panels, colour pictures, etc.
